HEALTH PROTOCOL FOR THE SHOWING OF SHEEP

The following protocols were developed by the Tenterfield Show Society Inc. and the Honorary Veterinarian Dr John Brown in August 2001, for guidance and the requirements of the Show. A small committee, consisting of the Show President, members of the sheep committee and the Honorary Veterinarian developed the protocols and then took them to the full committee of the Show Society for their approval. The protocols were endorsed by the Society in September 2001.

AIMS OF PROTOCOL

- To minimise and reduce the risk of any exhibitor bringing any disease to the show and its environment.
- To minimise and reduce the risk of any disease being contracted during the show, by having in place a physical environment that is clean and safe.
- To minimise and reduce the risk of any disease being contracted during the show, by conducting the show in accordance with health standards required by the Honorary Veterinarian and external bodies who have set guidelines for maintaining compliance for accreditation.
- To develop for exhibitors an environment that is considered safe in terms of disease and maintenance of accreditation.

CRITERIA ON WHICH PROTOCOLS WERE DEVELOPED

1. The final decision for all requirements rests with the Honorary Veterinarian for the Show, Dr Luke Annetts.

The Veterinarian has the right to refuse entries from any stud or producer on health grounds.

2. Accreditation for diseases is preferred to owner declaration or non assessments of sheep.

3. The Show Society will endeavour to treat all exhibitors fairly.

4. The number of exhibitors, the current accreditation of different exhibitor's sheep and the physical environment may restrict entries.

5. The Honorary Veterinarian will conduct an Audit of the venue, fourteen days before the show and supply each exhibitor with a copy of the Exhibition Venue Audit Certificate stating that the show is to be conducted in a manner, and has in place regulations, that comply with all accreditation requirements of all disease accreditation programs.

6. Stud Merinos only will be shown on the first day of the show.
